Pre-Operation Evaluation

A complete Pre-Operation evaluation is an important part of the surgical process. All surgical patients are scheduled to see one of our Physician's Assistants (PAs) before surgery. During this visit the PA will go over the surgical process in detail, evaluate your physical health, sign the surgical consent, and answer any questions you may have.

Pre-Operative Testing, Labs

Pre-Operative testing and labs may be required, depending on your age, medical history, or type of surgery. It is best if you can complete these prior to your Pre-Op appointment. Please have these tests at EvergreenHealth Medical Center's Preop Clinic located in Zone Blue, first floor, Room 106. They are open Monday-Friday 8:30 am to 4:30 pm and do not require an appointment.

1. DO NOT EAT or DRINK anything after midnight the day before your surgery.

3. If you are taking any blood thinning medication such as aspirin, Advil, Aleve or Motrin, please talk with your PA about when to discontinue medication prior to surgery.

Preparing for Surgery

On the day of surgery, you will need to have a designated driver who can drive you home after you are discharged. Wear loose, comfortable clothes. If you are having shoulder surgery it is recommended you wear a button-down shirt or something that completely zips up the front. Please do not wear makeup, lipstick, lotions, deodorant or perfumes. For your safety, jewelry and body piercings must be removed prior to surgery.

There are times when the surgery schedule changes on the day of your surgery. For this reason, please stay close to your phone in the event there is a change in your arrival time.

Surgery Check-in Time

A pre-admit nurse will call you the day prior to your surgery by 3:00 pm to give you a check-in time and answer any questions you may have.

Before Surgery

When you arrive, you will be greeted by our friendly admitting staff who will register you for surgery. In the Pre-Op area, a nurse will conduct a brief assessment. You will also meet with the anesthesiologist. You will then meet the nurse who will care for you during surgery.

During Surgery

Family members or friends are welcome to wait in the surgery waiting area located across the hall from the check-in lobby during your surgery.

After Surgery

Immediately after your surgery, you will be observed and gradually awakened in our Post-Operative recovery area where you will receive a snack and Post-Operative instructions before begin discharged. When your surgeon has considered it appropriate for you to leave, our staff will accompany you and your designated driver to your vehicle and you will return to the comfort of your own home to be cared for by family and/or friends.

Returning Home

For your safety, we will be unable to perform your surgery unless you have someone with you who can drive you home following discharge. You should also have a responsible adult stay with you at home for at least 24 hours after your surgery. A recovery room nurse will call you the following day to see how you are doing.

Financial Payment Policy

The following information outlines our policies regarding payment of your surgery bill:

While we will do our best to assist you any way that we can, you are responsible to understand your specific coverage. Whether you have commercial insurance, Medicare, or Medicaid, we recommend that you contact your carrier in advance to clarify your benefits, determine if the doctor and the facility are both covered "in" network, and if any pre-certification is required. Some insurance companies require patients to obtain pre-certification for other outpatient services (ie. number of physical therapy visits, CT scans, MRI's, etc.). This is the responsibility of the patient.

As a courtesy, we extend to all our patients, we will be happy to bill the appropriate insurance company or agency on your behalf for all claims. It is important that each patient understand that they are responsible for any portion of the bill not covered by insurance, Medicare, or Medicaid. No discounts or reduction of the amount billed will be negotiated after services are rendered.

During the surgical procedure, the doctor may determine that additional procedures are required. This may add additional costs and it will be the responsibility of the patient to pay any portion of the bill not covered by their insurance.

For co-payments, co-insurance, deductibles, self-pay accounts and those expenses that are not covered by your policy, you are asked to pay your portion of the bill at the time services are rendered or make appropriate payment arrangements with our financial counselors. For your convenience, we accept cash, personal checks, Visa/MasterCard credit cards and debit cards.

As a reminder, there are three components to your overall bill. You will receive a bill from the anesthesiologist, a bill from Washington Sports Medicine for the surgeon and a bill from Washington Institute Orthopedic Center for the surgical facility usage. Out of pocket expenses may be incurred from all three components for portions of the bill not covered by insurance.

Please sign the attached form stating that you have read and understand the above policy.

Again, thank you for choosing Washington Institute Orthopedic Center. We are committed to providing you with the best possible care.

About Advance Directives

Health care directive (also known as a living will)

A health care directive, commonly referred to as a “living will,” is a legal document specifying your wishes regarding the care you receive at the end of life, should you be unable to communicate them. In Washington State, the directive is used only if you have a terminal condition where life-sustaining treatment would only artificially prolong the process of dying, or if you are in an irreversible coma and there is no reasonable hope of recovery.

Health care directives may also be called a directive to a physician, declaration, or medical directive.

Durable power of attorney for health care

A durable power of attorney for health care is a legal document allowing you to name a person as your health care agent – someone who is authorized to consent to, stop, or refuse most medical treatment for you if a physician determines you cannot make these decisions yourself. Once appointed, your health care agent can speak on your behalf anytime you are unable to make your own medical decisions, not only at the end of life.

This type of advanced directive is also referred to as a health care proxy, appointment of health care agent, or a medical power of attorney.

Do I need an advanced directive?

Advanced directives are the best possible assurance that decisions regarding your future medical care will reflect your own wishes if you are unable to voice these wishes. For this reason, every person aged 18 or over should prepare a directive.

Do I need both a living will and a durable power of attorney for health care?

Yes. Having both a living will and a durable power of attorney for health care will provide the best protection for your treatment wishes.

A durable power of attorney will allow for some flexibility regarding treatment decisions, since the agent that you choose to represent your wishes will be able to respond to unexpected changes in your condition and base decisions not just on your written wishes, but also on their familiarity with you and your feelings regarding your care.

A living will is necessary to provide instruction in case your agent is unable to serve, to provide evidence that the agent is acting in good faith in case the agent’s decisions are challenged, or to serve as the primary record of your wishes in case you are unable to appoint a health care agent.

Are advance directives legal?

Yes. There are federal and state laws that govern the use of advanced directives. The federal law, the Patient Self-Determination Act, requires health care facilities that receive Medicaid and Medicare funds to inform patients of their rights to execute advanced directives. All 50 states and the District of Columbia have laws recognizing the use of advanced directives.

Will my Washington state advance directive be recognized in another state?

Many states have laws that honor out-of-state directives. If you travel, take copies of your directives with you. If you spend a significant amount of time in another state, it is a good idea to fill out an advanced directive form for that particular state.

Note: Washington State does not require durable power of attorney for health care to be notarized or witnessed. As some states do require notarization, you may want to do so in the event you travel out-of-state.

Will advanced directives be recognized in emergencies?

No. During most emergencies there is not enough time for emergency service personnel to consult the patient's advance directive. Once the patient is under the direct care of a physician, there will be time for the advance directive to be evaluated and/or the health care agent to be consulted.

What should I do with these forms once completed?

Signed copies of the completed directives should be included in your medical record, given to any person to whom you give your durable power of attorney – including any alternate people you may have named – and to your personal attorney. Originals should be in a safe but accessible place (not a safe deposit box).

Things to remember

It is essential that you have honest and open discussions with your appointed health care agent, doctor(s), clergy, and family and friends about your wishes concerning medical treatment. Discuss your wishes with them often, especially if your medical condition changes.

If you wish to make changes to the directives, you should complete new documents.

You can always revoke one or both of your Washington State directives. If you choose to revoke your documents, make sure you notify your health care agent, alternate agents, your family and your doctor(s).

For more information

You are encouraged to discuss the directives with your physician. Any legal questions you may have about the use and effect of these directives should be answered by an attorney.
